WELCOME TO LUXCON'S TENTH-ANNIVERSARY PARTY

Ten years of celebrating that which connects us, our common passion for science fiction, fantasy, and horror culture, and the many activities, pastimes, and hobbies that it entails. LuxCon was, from its founding, designed to be a place to meet and get to know like-minded people. It was a small group's spark that kindled what has become an annual celebration to which everyone adds their fuel.

Ten years is a good time to look back on what has not always been an easy journey. Over the last decade, LuxCon has become part of the Grand-Duchy and the greater region's cultural calendar. Many similar projects have seen the light of day, and many fan associations can look to LuxCon as a place where first seeds were sown that blossomed into what is now the community's annual scheduled family meeting. We all look forward to seeing this person or the other that busy lives, distance, or other circumstances might keep us from seeing more regularly. And we all, myself included, fondly look at moments from this LuxCon, or that other year's edition, that become etched in our memories.

Ten years is a good time to thank, first and foremost, the aforementioned community, who the original organizing team did not realize was this impressive in numbers, passionate, and dedicated to the causes we all love. We did not expect to see people wearing cosplays at our first event, and yet, the first we saw, a Marty and Doc Smith from Back to the Future, only traveled about two kilometers to the initial LuxCon, and what a colorful mass of people the first, and subsequent edition's visitors were. Attendees brought excitement, enthusiasm, and, most importantly, their entourage to celebrate.

Ten years have also seen many people take up the call and volunteer their time and effort to make sure that the event can run as smoothly as possible. I personally wish to thank each and every one of the organizing or volunteers teams of the past and present for their contributions, and I hope that over time we can welcome more to spend some time behind the scenes making the event as fun for everyone as possible.

Ten years is a good time to celebrate what has been a golden age for speculative fiction. I am not going to date myself by saying that it used to be that fans were happy with one speculative fiction show a year, and now we can hardly make enough time to see everything that pop culture is throwing our way. We've seen superhero films rise (and fall), have experiences Game of Thrones become mainstream water cooler talk, enjoy the continued popularity of the boy wizard, despite its creator's problematic ideology. We are still witness to the sheer endless rebirth and reinvention of tales from the galaxy far, far away, and a never-ending stream of narratives designed to appeal to our tastes.

As we celebrate the past ten years, let's also look forward to what is yet to come; after all, we are fans of the 'what if' genres. It is because of this that we look forward to what is yet to come in speculative fiction. I hope that all of us can celebrate many more LuxCons together and create other outlets for our passion – and yes, there are a couple we can think of, but ssshhh, more about them soon. We are committed to providing an inclusive, diverse, and innovative safe space where everyone can join in the festivities around science fiction, fantasy, and horror culture.

Ten years. Wow. Thank you all for sharing our vision and supporting us. I hope you enjoy this year's festival, will be back for many years, and bring many fans and soon-to-be fans along.

Thank you.

Bevor STAR TREK-THE NEXT GENERATION die SF-TV-Serien zu neuer Blüte führte, gab es in den 80er Jahren eine Zeit, die heute gerne als „Tollkühne Männer mit ihren technischen Spielzeugen“ bezeichnet werden. Gemeint sind natürlich KNIGHT RIDER, AIRWOLF, STREETHAWK, HIGHWAYMAN, A-TEAM etc. Robert Vogel erweckt den Kult dieser Serien in seinem Vortrag.
